Trading without money? Why a new system can address the economic spiral

Earlier this month the founder of firm Patagonia, Yvon Chouinard questioned the impact of greener business within an ever expanding economy. "The elephant in the room is growth," he said. As an increase in gross domestic product (GDP) simply means more money changing hands, Chouinard is not alone in thinking it's a fairly inadequate measure of human progress. Politicians of most countries now agree new measures would be useful, and there is a growing community of professionals who seek to audit various aspects of our happiness and well-being.

When colleagues enthuse about new measures of progress, I can't help but wonder why for the past 20 years an alternative measure of progress has had such little impact on public policy or corporate strategy. The Human Development Index (HDI) is backed by the United Nations and measures life expectancy, education, and income. The country with the highest HDI in Africa was recently considered to need military intervention, which does little to build the case that alternative metrics influence policy.

While more politicians promote new measures of progress, they remain fixated on increasing economic growth. Why this obsession? Do they simply prefer it to other measures of progress? Clearly that can't be the reason. The answer lies in our current monetary system, which requires economic growth, as otherwise our money supply disappears and we experience recession. To understand how that is the case, we must first understand the origin of the money we use. So let us take a couple of moments to recap on our monetary system.

In most countries, about 3% of our money originates from government-owned mints that make notes and coins. The rest is digital and created by private banks, out of nothing, when they issue loans. When we go to a bank to take out a loan, the bank does not lend its own money or that of its depositors. As a deputy governor at the Bank of England put it: "Banks extend credit by simply increasing the borrowing customer's current account ... That is, banks extend credit by creating money." As banks create the amount borrowed, but not the interest to be paid on that loan, there is now more debt in the world than money. That means there must be an increasing amount of lending to pay off debts plus interest while maintaining the amount of money in circulation, which means economic activity must continually increase. Otherwise, as debts are paid off, so our money supply shrinks, which leads to defaults, foreclosures, bankruptcies, unemployment, depression, and, history shows us, then crime and extremism.

This monetary system also means that although individually we might pay off our debts, collectively we are in debt forever, paying interest to the banks. So this money system makes increasing inequality a mathematical certainty. Is it any wonder that 2% of the world's population controls about half the world's wealth? This monetary system means governments do not issue the money they spend, but go into debt to private banks that "lend" money they simply create. It's a sleight of hand that becomes a strangling hold, as people assume the government cannot afford to help their citizens by spending their own currency, due to the deficit. Yet the real deficit is in our thinking.

FE Magazine Full Report on who is B.I.S

The Bank for International Settlements is the central bank of central banks, BIS is an immensely powerful international organization that most people have never even heard of secretly controls the money supply of the entire globe. It is located in Basel, Switzerland, but it also has branches in Hong Kong and Mexico City. It is essentially an unelected, unaccountable central bank of the world that has complete immunity from taxation and from national laws. Even Wikipedia admits that "it is not accountable to any single national government." The Bank for International Settlements was used to launder money for the Nazis during World War II, but these days the main purpose of the BIS is to guide and direct the centrally-planned global financial system. Today, 58 global central banks belong to the BIS, and it has far more power over how the U.S. economy (or any other economy for that matter) will perform over the course of the next year than any politician does. Every two months, the central bankers of the world gather in Basel for another "Global Economy Meeting". During those meetings, decisions are made which affect every man, woman and child on the planet, and yet none of us have any say in what goes on. The Bank for International Settlements is an organization that was founded by the global elite and it operates for the benefit of the global elite, and it is intended to be one of the key cornerstones of the emerging one world economic system.

The New Basel III banking laws for the top 100 world banks as issued by the Central Bank Europe, USA Federal Reserve, Bank of England, all in relation to Oil/ Sugar/ Rubber/Certain Hard Woods etc.

All banks are now operating this new law, NO INSTRUMENTS CAN BE ISSUED UNTIL FULL AND PROPER VERIFICATION OF PRODUCT HAS BEEN PROVIDED BY THE SELLER, WHO MUST BE THE LEGITIMATE TITLE HOLDER AND MUST BE APPROVED BY THE BUYERS BANK.

This is in response to the International convention on INTERNATIONAL COMMODITY FRAUD in the above areas. Banks have till the beginning of 2014 to become FULLY COMPLIANT with the new regulations, should a bank fail to recognize the new legislation then the consequences are a fine of up to $10,000,000 (usd).

FE Gold News

Gold price probe extended to Deutsche Bank

Germany's financial regulator has demanded documents from Deutsche Bank as part of an investigation into potential manipulation of gold and silver prices.

The probe from the German watchdog comes as regulators around the world step up their scrutiny of benchmarks after the recent Libor interbank lending scandal led to hefty fines for banks.

BaFin has grilled Deutsche Bank staff during several on-site inspections in the past few months, said people familiar with the matter, in a sign of how seriously the German regulator is scrutinising the precious metals markets.

Deutsche Bank is one of five banks that take part in the twice-daily "London gold fixing", and one of three banks that take part in the equivalent process for silver.

The UK's Financial Conduct Authority has also been looking at precious metals as part of a broader review of financial benchmarks. With an estimated 175m ounces of gold, worth $215bn at today's prices, changing hands daily on the over-the-counter market, London is the global centre of gold trading. However, the FCA has not launched a formal investigation.

Some bankers believe BaFin has come under pressure to show it is willing to get tough on suspected market manipulation. It was widely seen to have been slow to respond to the concerns over possible manipulation in the forex market expressed by other regulators around the world earlier this year.

Although the gold and silver fixings are, like Libor, set by small groups of banks, they contrast with the process for setting Libor in that they are based on trading activity rather than theoretical quotes.

The other banks that take part in the gold fixing are Barclays, Bank of Nova Scotia, HSBC and Société Générale. The other banks involved in silver fixing are Bank of Nova Scotia and HSBC. As the only German member of either fixing, Deutsche is the only bank to come under BaFin's remit

Diesel prices up, gasoline

Oil firms are likely to raise the pump prices of diesel products, but lower the prices of gasoline this week to reflect international price movements, industry sources said Monday.

The price adjustments will likely be less than 50 centavos per liter, sources said. According to sources' estimates, there may be 20 to 25 centavos per liter price hikes for diesel and 45 to 50 centavos per liter price cuts for gasoline starting Tuesday. Kerosene may be up 25 centavos per liter.

Without including the price forecasts for this week, the year-to-date net increase for gasoline has been reduced to P1.85 per liter, while diesel remained at P2.33/liter. There has been a net decrease in LPG of P4.75 per kilogram.

On Aug. 6, oil companies rolled back gasoline prices by 35 centavos and increased kerosene prices by 25 centavos per liter. No adjustment was implemented on diesel. For LPG, an increase of P1.55/kg (VAT exclusive) was implemented on Aug. 1 due to the increase in contract price for August by $28.50/metric ton to $820/MT from $791.50/MT in July.

The price changes reflect movements in the international oil markets and foreign exchange, the oil companies said.

The country imports about 90 percent of its fuel requirements. As such, oil firms operating in the Philippines tend to track each other's price movements.

Since the Philippine market is very small compared to the total oil trade worldwide, anything from foreign exchange movements to political developments and global price speculation still greatly influence local prices.

Speculation on prices due to volatile political developments in the oil producing and/or transporting regions in the Middle East and North Africa, economic developments and the oil consumption of the world's top two consumers (United States and China), and demand from other industrialized markets such as Japan, all influence oil prices in the world market.

According to the Department of Energy's latest Oil Monitor report, Dubai crude was relatively stable in late July to early August, trading between $104 to $105 a barrel, but better than expected manufacturing data in the United States and China signified increased demand by the world's two largest oil consumers.

"In the US, the Federal Reserve showed its continued economic support by offering no signs to curb its bond-buying stimulus at its next meeting in September. Another reason that relatively provided support to prices was the eurozone's manufacturing sector that grew in July for the first time in two years. It is the latest signal that the economy of the 17-nation eurozone has begun to stabilize at low levels after 18 months of recession," the DOE's Oil Monitor said.

Dubai crude also leaped on the back of continued political turmoil in Yemen and Libya, halting the flow of crude.

Weak people Revenge
Strong people Forgive
Intelligent people Ignore

"Never blame anyone in your life.
good people give you happiness.
bad people give you experience.
worst people give you lesson
& best people give you memories."

Beautiful things happen when you distance yourself from the negative.

The greatest glory in living lies not in never falling.
but in rising every time we fall.

Thoughts for the New Year

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE ALWAYS CARRY
TWO THINGS ON THEIR FACE

" SMILE AND SILENCE "

" SMILE TO SOLVE PROBLEMS "

" SILENCE TO AVOID PROBLEMS "

*"Forget what hurt you
but never forget
what it taught you"*

I think I need glasses cause I keep seeing alot of people with two faces.

YOU CAN'T MOVE FORWARD
WHEN YOU'RE REFUSING TO SEPARATE YOURSELF FROM PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT MEANT TO BE IN YOUR LIFE.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

I can't wait to pop
my cork tonight!!

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS...

Honey, our lawyer wishes us,

"Happy New Year? But I'm not finished with the old one yet!"
