FE TEAMWORK

First Edges Managing Director (David McGhie) will be taking a back seat from the day to day commodity operations, the main reason behind his decision was due to the future of the company and all the people associated with it. He will be concentrating on the existing major account and new projects which has matured.

Most people knows that he has been instrumental in driving the company to where it is today, so for him to take a back seat an hand over the reins he must be comfortable with the main structure of the company and the directors and executive running the company at present

The means there will be a major company reshuffled and new appointments being made to the company which is we will now show.

Anna Huttenga

Position: Company Director

Anne has been a main factor within the house of First Edge, over the past 3 years she has been instrumental in negotiating and reviewing gold and monetary transactions with high level principles around the globe, in 2013 she agreed to become a director of first edge.

Bentley barbers' chairs for Pankhurst

The Pankhurst men's grooming store is apparently the finest barbershop in London. Which is why Bentley was keen to supply six barbers' chairs.

Bentley Home Collection

The press release for Bentley's Home Collection at the Salone Internazionale del Mobile di Milano includes terms such as "rigorous aesthetic sensibility", "sophisticated velvets", "pastel nuances" and "exquisite taste". Which all sounds rather lovely. Yes. It is basically a range of Bentley furniture.

Bentley aftershave

In fairness to Bentley, we could have picked on any number of car manufacturers for this one, including Ferrari, Lamborghini, Jaguar or even Hummer. The question is, why would you want to smell like a car? Most interiors smell like Magic Tree air fresheners and old socks.

Weird things car brands also make

Bugatti Hookah

Well if you're going to drop another million pounds on yet another "final edition" Bugatti Veyron, you're probably going to be smoking something. Allegedly. Which may go some way to explaining the $100,000 (£59,000) Bugatti by Desvali luxury shisha pipe. Personally, we'd rather spend the money on a Porsche Cayman GTS and use the leftover cash for a second set of tyres. Smoking!

Peugeot Design Lab piano

If we were to review this Peugeot and Pleyel piano, we'd probably complain about the pedal arrangement, the lack of seat support and the limited amount of boot space. On the plus side, the soundtrack is pretty spectacular.

Maserati and La Martina luxury polo saddle

We're tempted to ask the horse, why the long face? It's clearly not impressed with the one-off La Martina and Maserati polo saddle on its back. In a statement, the horse, which received only a couple of sugar lumps and a polo mint for its troubles, said, "Happy 100th birthday, Maserati, but I still can't forgive you for putting a diesel engine in the Ghibli".

UK economy has surpass pre-recession

The British economy is set to grow at its fastest pace in seven years in 2014, driven by a surge in household consumption, the British Chamber of Commerce has said.

The business body said its expects the UK economy to grow by 2.7 per cent next year, up from a previous forecast of 2.2 per cent, surpassing the pre-crisis peak registered in the first quarter of 2008.

It also upgraded its forecast for this year to 1.4 per cent from 1.3 per cent but downgraded its prediction for 2015 to 2.4 per cent from 2.5 per cent indicating that higher personal debt could lead to a slowdown in consumption.

"As household consumption slows in the medium term, we have to find ways of boosting business investment and exports, as rebalancing our economy is critical to our long-term economic future.

"If we make important decisions to fix the long-term structural failure in business finance, continue to deliver a major infrastructure upgrade and do more to support exports, it is possible to achieve not just a good recovery, but a truly great and sustainable economy."

Also indicated that it expects unemployment to hit the 7 per cent threshold in the first quarter of 2015, one quarter earlier than previously forecast.

The unemployment rate is closely monitored by the Bank of England, which has indicated that a hike in interest rates, currently at a record low of 0.5 per cent, would only be triggered if unemployment falls below 7 per cent.

It is expected that rates to stay unchanged until the last quarter of 2015, with the Bank's easy money program providing support for the economy until at least the first quarter of 2016.

US rides oil production to 38-year high

The last time U.S. crude oil reserves were estimated to have increased over 33 billion barrels was 40 years ago, according to data from the U.S. Energy Information Administration. Between 1970 and 1973, U.S. crude oil reserves had their four biggest years ever, with a peak of just over 39 billion in 1970.

Proven reserves are resources that companies believe are reachable and make economic sense to produce. Estimates change from year to year as companies discover more oil and gas, remove existing reserves from the ground, make use of new technologies and change production levels in response to market prices.

U.S. crude oil and condensate proven reserves rose by 3.1 billion barrels. During the year, producers pumped about 2.73 billion barrels from the ground while adding 5.84 billion new barrels to proven reserves.

Most new proven reserves, about 5 billion barrels, came from extensions to existing oilfields. Extensions are tallied when a producer updates reserves estimates as new wells provide a deeper understanding of the geology of a formation. New field discoveries accounted for 190 million barrels and new reservoirs found in old oilfields accounted for 340 million barrels. In terms of total discoveries, a statistic that includes extensions, new field discoveries and new reservoirs found in old fields, most of the oil found in 2013 was in Texas. The state's producers found 2 billion barrels, while North Dakota added 1.6 billion barrels. Producers in the Gulf of Mexico found about 500 million barrels, mostly from discovering entirely new fields. Not surprisingly, much of the new oil was found in unconventional plays that often require hydraulic fracturing to produce commercially. As of December 31, 2013, those plays accounted for about 28 percent of all U.S. crude oil and lease condensate proved reserves, according to the analysis. On the natural gas side, reserves increased by 10 percent in 2013 to a new record high of 354 trillion cubic feet. During the year, 26.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas was produced.

The largest 2013 increases in natural gas reserves were in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, with increase respectively of 13.5 trillion cubic feet and 8.3 trillion cubic feet, according to EIA data.

As with oil, the majority of new natural gas reserves came from extensions to existing fields. The EIA estimated that those discoveries accounted for 51.1 trillion cubic feet of new proven reserves, or about 96 percent of new discoveries.

Natural gas proven reserves may be affected positively in the future by rising prices for the gas. Since the EIA report was released, the benchmark spot price for natural gas set at the Henry Hub hasn't seen the same slide as oil prices.

US Dollar and Oil surges into 2015

The U.S. dollar reached fresh multiyear highs in late december after a stronger-than-forecast November U.S. jobs report increased expectations the Federal Reserve may begin raising interest rates sooner than previously thought. Employers added the most workers in nearly three years in November and wages rose, the latest U.S. employment report showed. Non-farm payrolls increased by 321,000, better than forecasts for an increase of 230,000. The unemployment rate held steady at a six-year low of 5.8 percent. Earlier this week U.S. central bank officials such as New York Fed President William Dudley and Fed Vice Chairman Stanley Fischer made comments that pointed toward rate increases in response to stronger U.S. economic figures, maintaining a focus on what the data showed.

"The trend is pretty good. Now comes the second-guessing in the market. It brings concerns that the Fed might look to raise earlier than some people had expected. I don't think anyone should fear the Fed right now," said Scott Brown, chief economist at Raymond James in St. Petersburg, Florida. Brown said the increase could be seasonal but there is optimism heading into 2015.

Rising U.S. interest rates would be in stark contrast to the euro zone and Japan, where monetary policy is moving in the opposite direction. The pattern would increase the yield advantage for investors holding U.S. dollar-denominated assets.

Russia Worst Year in fuel and More

Russia Worst Year in fuel and More

For Russian corporations this has been a terrible year, though it began with a moderately successful Winter Olympics in Sochi, this was immediately followed by the annexation of Crimea and the fighting in Eastern Ukraine - though Russia continues to deny that its troops are involved there, explains Morningstar's Director of Research Jeremy Beckwith.

"Western sanctions have done little to hurt Putin and the Russian state directly but they have been far more effective at damaging Russian companies especially the fuel end. This has been because many Russian companies have in recent years been building exposure to foreign currency debt from Western banks, and these banks have been forced by dint of the sanctions, not to roll over existing debt as it matures. This leaves these companies scrabbling around for foreign currency at a time when no one is prepared to provide it to them," he continues.

The Russian government may be able to provide some of this, but the risk is that default by Russian companies on their foreign currency debts are near. The second half of the year saw Russia's key commodity export, oil, halve in price, and the outlook for the Russian export earnings is very poor in the short term. The rouble has fallen sharply, providing further losses for international investors in Russian equities."

Mr Putin's ratings still remains high in Russia. But now the opposing parties is getting stronger were curtain prominent opposition leaders such as Alexei Navalny is making head waves of more than 30 of votes, on Tuesday 31/12/2014 More than a dozen protesters, including a member of punk rock group Pussy Riot, have been arrested in central Moscow.

Maria Alyokhina was among those detained after demonstrating all night against the conviction of prominent opposition leader Alexei Navalny.

More than 200 others were arrested at the rally.

Navalny tried to join the protests but was detained. He was convicted of fraud hours earlier in a case he says is politically motivated.

A court in Moscow handed the anti-corruption campaigner a suspended prison sentence of three-and-a-half years for defrauding two firms.

He had called for protests after his brother was sentenced to three years in jail for the same offence.

Police detained Navalny at the protest in Manezh Square on Tuesday and took him home, where he has been under house arrest since February.

GIA Reports - New Format

About The New Format

Beginning January 2014, GIA's benchmark laboratory reports will have a new look. They'll contain the same trusted grading and identification data in an easier-to-read format. The reports will also contain enhanced security features and unique QR codes providing direct access to Report Check for quick report verification. The new reports consume less paper and other materials to help clients reduce their storage and postage costs.

Exchanging Reports for the Revised Format

The introduction of the revised format will not affect the validity of previously issued reports. If you'd still like to exchange your current report for one in the new format, GIA's Reissue Program offers a cost-effective way to do so.

Reports Qualifying for Reissue: Any prior version report dated on or after January 1, 2013. Reports dated prior to January 1, 2013 are subject to the standard update service and fees,

Several international mining corporations have established regional headquarters in Botswana and are looking for diamonds, uranium, gold and oil. Many have come back with positive results. Galane Gold Ltd announced that it has kicked off its first ore exploration from Tau underground in the northern part of the country.

Galane Gold or GG is a Toronto-based investment firm, an unhedged gold producer and explorer acting in mining operation and exploration in the Republic of Botswana. It is a publicly traded company which is listed on both the TSX Venture Exchange and the Botswana Stock Exchange. Galane Gold has already had several extensive exhibitions in the management of mining and exploring programs.

"This gold exploration is an expected evolution in order to improve the company's performance," GG said. The firm contributes with senior professional employees, who are committed to respect the environment and the communities in which they work.

At the beginning, GG didn't have the intention to pursue the resource of gold in Tau through underground mining. It started the project in the fourth quarter of 2013 and has finished its forced portal entry at the bottom of the existing Tau pit and the installation of the entire infrastructure required for the exploration. The company has put a graphical presentation of the detailed mining plan on the reported resource to mine about 85,000 ounces of gold over the next three years.

Ravi Sood, the Chief executive officer of Galane Gold, stated, "This project is a major step in the evolution of the company both with regards to a change from open pit mining to underground mining and our plans to extend mine life through further exploration." He then added, "We have completed this project within six months and from our own operating cash-flows is a testament to the experienced management team that we have put in place."

Botswana is ranked as the best investment jurisdiction in Africa, according to World Bank Global Investment Benchmarking Report. According to the Fraser Institute Global survey of Mining Companies best African mining jurisdiction and the seventh best mining country globally. It also has a strong economic environment. In fact, Botswana is regarded as the best mining country in Africa. It has political stability and strong GDP growth. Its status as an English speaking country is why Multinational firms such as Galane Gold can operate on its ground. The Australian firm, Gallery Gold, however, has also its entire exploration of Gold in the country. The company's most prospect exploration was the Mupane Gold Mine which officially opened in February 2005, will produce approximately 100,000 ounces of gold per year. Apart from that, Botswana is an emerging mining powerhouse.

Gold Falls On Rising Dollar as BoJ Further Debases Yen

Gold tumbled through support at 1182.10/1179.83 to establish new four-year lows as the Bank of Japan (BoJ) announced that it would further expand asset purchases in its seemingly unending fight against deflation. The yen tumbled, providing an additional lift to the dollar; which in turn weighed on gold.

In a surprise move, the BoJ said it was escalating its expansion of the monetary base from ¥60-70 trillion per year to ¥80 trillion per year. The BoJ board gave Governor Kuroda one year to defeat deflation, and he went 'BIG' in his attempt to do just that, unleashing a torrent of liquidity into the market.

However, with just five-months to go before they need to show results, the BoJ's QQE program and Abenomics as a whole appear poised to fail. All they can do at this point is further debase the yen and buy ever-more assets. I shudder to think what they might do if this latest boost proves insufficient as well.

Stocks not surprisingly love the idea of an even bigger influx of liquidity, even as the Fed officially completed the taper this week. An article from The Economist today, suggests the U.S. might be strong enough to withstand further yen debasement (dollar strength), but they wonder about Europe...

The European economy is already on the ropes, facing significant growth risks, high unemployment and deflationary pressures. If the Japanese gain further competitive advantage via the weak yen, it could derail any hope for a European recovery.

The ECB announces policy next week and Mario Draghi is going to have to step-up his game. He wants a weaker euro as well, but the Japanese are just being bolder on that front. Will Draghi finally take the plunge into full-fledged QE on Thursday? Probably not, but I anticipate Draghi will rattle the QE saber even louder. The currency wars have escalated once again.

If weakness in the yen and euro continue push the dollar higher, I suspect the Fed will

Comment & Suggestion Box

To Share Your Comments by using our suggestion box at your convenience by sending us any concerns you may have towards FE Magazine.

What's your big idea?

We're always looking for ways to improve FE Magazine for our readers, so if you've got an idea to make things better or you've seen something we've not spotted, let us know by emailing us, with the email address shown below..

How do Comments Help FE Readers?

All Comments are read and replied. If you have a comment or suggestion is viable it will appear in FE Magazine, For instance, you can send us your personal thoughts of a particular product in which you know that could be helpful to our readers.

We will also publish our reader's feedback which should give you the indication that you've made a positive comment which has become helpful to all our readers.

How does the blacklisting words work?

You can report companies or people you think should be blacklisted in the comments box. The content of new comments is checked against the blacklist of terms to see if this comment should have viability to be put on our Blacklist Website. The comment is checked via substring matching on other websites and checked by our compliance team.

It would be great if you could also state your country and region when sending in your comment.

While we always read the feedback ideas you send, we may not be able to respond to every single comment individually.

URGENT WARNING FOR ALL BUYER AND SELLER/BROKERS

This should be the most important information released in the commodity industry, where the severity of this warning should make everyone realize the most serious impact that pertains in Oil and other commodities transactions.

FEM is happy to release this very important message to anyone involved in the commodities industry concerning the new measures with respect to all Buyers and Sellers conducting business' transactions around the globe.

From now on, if an ICPO, LOI, RWA, or BCL is issued and the document is not real, true and/or actually verifiably factual, the Buyer will be able to inform the FBI, ICC, and INTERPOL. In addition, after an FCO is sent to the Buyer, there should be a formal answer to Seller from Buyer in a timely manner in accordance with the agreement between parties.

If there is no response from the Buyer in a timely manner, the buying company will be reported to the FBI, ICC and INTERPOL. If this action is repeated by sellers, they too will also be reported for abuse of the NCND, LOI, ICPO, AND RWA OR BCL, FOR THIS IS NOW A FEDERAL OFFENSE.

It is important to transmit this to all clients that work with providers that are members of the ICC, FBI, and other international organizations. From this point forward, the international codes will be strictly enforced to exclude all intruders that send or transmit false information. Those who submit a false NCND/IMFPA, LOI, ICPO, RWA or BCL, or FCO, as well as FALSE PROOF OF PRODUCT (POP), FALSE PROOF OF FUNDS (POF) WILL BE CHARGED WITH A CRIME.

This offense went into effect on November 15, 2008 and re-effected in June 2013 after a meeting was held between the Federal Reserve, European Central Bank, Interpol, Federal Bureau of Investigation and Central Intelligence Agency.

The reason for this measurement is to protect the commodities industry which is a fundamental part of the world's economy.

The Non-Circumvention, Non-Disclosure & Working Agreement (NCNDA&IMFPA) we signed and it stated: WARNING:

This should be the most important information released in the commodity industry for years where the severity of this warning should make everyone realize the serious impact that pertains in all oil and other commodities transactions.
