How Gold is Produced

This chart illustrates the general steps in open-pit gold mining. The specifics of the process vary from mine to mine.

(1) Geologists use the latest technology, such as satellite surveys and geo-chemistry, to locate an ore deposit.

(2) Computers are used to design the mine, which requires precise and accurate measurement of the ore deposit. Construction begins following the lengthy process of receiving permits.

(3) Samples of ore are examined to determine grade and metallurgical characteristics. Broken rock is marked by type for efficient processing.

(4) Based on its metallurgical makeup, a dispatcher directs truck operators to deliver the ore to the correct processing location.

(5a)

Low Grade Ore is roughly broken into small chunks and placed on carefully lined pads where a dilute cyanide solution is distributed over the surface of the heap. The solution percolates through the heap and the cyanide dissolves the gold. This solution containing dissolved gold is then collected.

(5a)

High Grade Ore is delivered to a grinding mill, where the ore is pulverized to a powder. Depending on its metallurgical characteristics, the ore may be treated in one of three recovery circuits.

How Gold is Produced

Refractory ore containing carbon is roasted to over 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, burning off the sulfide and carbon. The product of this process is an oxide ore, which is routed to the leaching circuit.

Oxide ore is sent directly to the leaching circuit where cyanide dissolves the gold.

Sulfide refractory ore without carbon is oxidized in an autoclave to liberate the gold from sulfide minerals, then it is sent to the leaching circuit.

Treated, high-grade ore is leached with cyanide.

(6) The gold is absorbed (collected) out of solution onto activated carbon. The remaining cyanide solution is recycled.

(7) The gold loaded carbon is moved into a vessel where the gold is chemically stripped from the carbon which is then recycled.

How Gold is Produced

(8) Gold is precipitated from the solution electrolytically or by chemical substitution.

The pure gold is then melted into dore' bars containing up to 90 percent gold. Dore' bars are then sent to an external refinery to be refined to bars of 999.9 parts per thousand pure gold.

Reclamation is a long-term investment made by every gold mining company, and can cost anywhere from $2,000 to $10,000 per acre. It is the cornerstone of every mine plan and is considered the first and last step of the mining process. (For more information on reclamation, see the Reclamation section of the NMA Website.)

* For information on how gold is used in electronics, telecommunications and medicine, see NMA's gold uses page.

* For statistical data on the economic impact of gold production, see NMA's Facts About Gold and Silver.

Gold is produced at some mines as part of the process of mining and refining other metals, such as copper. At those operations, gold is refined to an acceptable purity as part of the copper production process. At most gold mines, the gold "dore" is sent to a refinery for further processing.

First Edge reviews the scams running into 2012

Welcome to another month dedicated to Evil Fraudsters and Scammers and how far these people would go to get their hands on your money.

We at First Edge have seen & knows all what there is to know about scammers.

We will can also supply you with the right procedures and put you in contact with the right sellers that can make you money.

90% of the time it come down to greed in losing your investment this means not looking at the down-side of the transaction and not speaking with professional companies like First Edge for advice.

First Edge can safely say it has never lost out on any Gold Deal that why we are getting more and more investors to transact deals for them.

Our procedures are water tight and we are always updating our procedures for our ourselves & our wide range of financiers.

The scams can range from a business claiming to be a gold bar, gold dust or gold coin supplier to an individual involved in the shipping, investment or sale of gold. Gold scams are common in West Africa but no country is immune. Scams can take place in any country.

In addition to the common gold scams on the internet, gold bars carry an increased risk of forgery due to their less stringent parameters for appearance. Larger bars have a greater volume that can enable a partial forgery using a tungsten-filled cavity, which is not easy to detect. Fake gold coins are common, and are usually made of gold-plated lead. The purity of a gold bar or coin can be expressed as a decimal figure ranging from 0 to 1, known as the millesimal fineness. Such ratings and quality inspections can be easily manipulated.

Gulf left vulnerable to oil price swings

Our philosophy serves the best interests of Petroleum News readers and advertisers because if people view our newspaper as a "must read," they are seeing the ads. We offer contracted advertisers in Petroleum News a free listing on our notice board for Oil & Gas as well as many other benefits, but we have no editorial calendar because we firmly believe news, not dated information, draws readers.

The US, where a glut of oil has formed at its physical delivery point in Cushing, Oklahoma, prices for a barrel of the benchmark West Texas Intermediate fell to a six-month low of $92 last week. At the same time, Brent crude, used as a benchmark for Middle Eastern oil, completed its largest three-week fall since May last year, dropping more than $20 to 2012 lows of less than $110.

In the recent past, crude prices in that range would have meant giant surpluses for the region. But spending surges have changed that. Government expenditure in the Gulf is forecast to reach $500bn by next year, a fourfold increase in less than a decade, according to HSBC estimates.

According to the International Monetary Fund, the United Arab Emirates now needs oil to remain higher than $92 to stay in the black, up from just $23 in 2008.

In the Gulf, only Bahrain needs prices higher than that. Wracked by political turmoil that hit its tourism and financial sectors, the island's break-even price last year rose to $114, the IMF estimates. Even Saudi Arabia, the region's economic giant, has seen the price it needs to avoid deficits rise to $80, more than double the 2008 level.

The break-even figures, which are difficult to estimate for states where government budgets are often opaque, can differ widely from one source to another. But they illustrate how state spending has risen in tandem with the rise in oil prices – and onlookers doubt whether such spending can fall as easily.

"It's just very risky to build an economy based on these kind of oil prices," says Robin Mills, an analyst at Dubai-based Manaar Consulting. "In the short term you have all sorts of threats that could drive prices down and in the long term $100 oil is just not sustainable."

all Gulf oil exporters have become more vulnerable to oil price shocks, some are better placed to weather the volatility than others, onlookers say.

Gulf left vulnerable to oil price swings

Saudi Arabia, with the largest population in the Gulf, will continue to spend on its socioeconomic programs regardless of risking budget deficits, because it cannot shelve domestic issues such as unemployment and wealth disparity, says Citi's Mr Soussa. With a cushion of $500bn in reserves, the country has the flexibility to fund its deficits in the medium-term.

Analysts group the UAE alongside Qatar and Kuwait as countries that would be less affected by a drop in oil prices. With smaller populations and less pressing social demands, the countries have increased flexibility to reduce spending if the need arises.

But Bahrain and Oman are singled out for the need to continue to spend domestically, teamed with a lack of the abundant petrodollars enjoyed by other Gulf states. Although both are under pressure to spend to stave off domestic dissent, funding budget deficits is likely to require higher borrowing costs than their Gulf neighbours.

The structure of government spending across the Gulf has changed over the past five years, from dealing with the fallout of the global economic crisis to a new focus on spending to salve domestic disquiet.

While cash transfers through government handouts and pay increases were one early example of such spending, the bulk is going into infrastructure projects to tackle what many consider to be root causes of unrest, such as unemployment, housing and state services.

“There's a real desire that the national economic growth plans aren't knocked off track,” says Nick Tolchard, head of Middle East at Invesco, the asset manager.

Governments are funding directly the kind of projects that may in the past have been supported through leverage. The result is less oil money being put away for future generations.

Invesco's recent sovereign wealth fund report concluded that cash entering the region's sovereign investment funds will grow an estimated 8 per cent this year, despite a 31 per cent increase in government revenues. The reduced saving is another symptom of the rapid rise in government spending.

Dear Client

PRE-ARRIVAL INFORMATION AND PROCEDURES

Before the shipment arrives to London the Seller should notify the First Edge Team of departure date and other related document's please see (Required Documents shown below) this is to be dispatch and supply by Email

The Clear customs and pay 20% VAT also pay for security to Refinery and transport your Rep to Refinery/pay smelting and assay at Refinery then pay two days hotel accommodation for your Rep.

The smelting assay process will take no longer than 24 to 48 hours with payment in full to the seller for the total shipment immediately thereafter.

This in itself is of significant financial benefit to Gold Sellers when compared to the present sales structure.

By accepting this format you will benefit from rising Au Gold prices going forward.

It is important to bear in mind that you will ship each consignment on CIF basis, which in itself guarantees that ownership of the gold does not pass from Seller to Buyer until payment in full has been effected.

The Refinery is Government Certified and of excellent financial standing.

The obvious benefit of trading directly with the Refinery on clearly defined terms is to build a trading relationship based on mutual trust and integrity.

We are at your disposal should you require any further clarity that we are the only UK company that will pay for the all the transaction stated at the port of delivery.

First Edge Ltd will not make any Advance Payment other than Full Payment after Full Assay

This does not means we are not prepared to negotiate any added payment cost after the gold has been assayed, but no upfront fee and no advances also no diplomat fee or financier cost or anything relating where first edge has to pay upfront fee once the gold has arrived in London and before the assay of the gold has been completed.

FEMALE PRAYER

Before I lay me down to sleep,
I pray for a man, who's not a creep,
One who's handsome, smart and strong,
One who loves to listen long,
One who thinks before he speaks,
One who'll call, not wait for weeks
I pray he's gainfully employed,
When I spend his cash, won't be annoyed.
Pulls out my chair and opens my door,
Massages my back and begs to do more.
Oh! Send me a man, who'll make love to my mind,
Knows what to answer to "How big is my ! behind?"
I pray that this man will love me no end,
And never attempt to hit on my friend.
And as I pray beside my bed,
I look at the clown you sent me instead.
Amen.

MALE PRAYER

I pray for a deaf-mute nymphomaniac with huge boobs
who owns a liquor store.
Amen

Grandma's Driving - too funny

The other day I went up to a local Christian bookstore with my lovely Dog and saw a honk if you love Jesus bumper sticker.

I was feeling particularly sassy that day because I had just come from a thrilling choir performance, followed by a thunderous prayer meeting, so I bought the sticker and put in on my bumper.

I was stopped at a red light at a busy intersection, just lost in thought about the Lord and how good He is and I didn't notice that the light had changed.

It is a good thing someone else loves Jesus because if he hadn't honked, I'd never have noticed.

I found that LOTS of people love Jesus. Why, while I was sitting there, the guy behind started honking like crazy, and when he leaned out of his window and screamed, "for the love of God, GO! GO!" What an exuberant cheerleader he was for Jesus.

Everyone started honking! I just leaned out of my window and started waving and smiling at all these loving people.

I even honked my horn a few times to share in the love. There must have been a man from Florida back there because I heard him yelling something about a sunny beach...

I saw another guy waving in a funny way with only his middle finger stuck up in the air. When I asked my teenage grandson in the back seat what that meant, he said that it was probably a Hawaiian good luck sign or something.

Well, I've never met anyone from Hawaii, so I leaned out the window and gave him the good luck sign back.

My grandson burst out laughing, why even he was enjoying this religious experience.

A couple of the people were so caught up in the joy of the moment that they got out of their cars and started walking towards me.

I bet they wanted to pray or ask what church I attended, but this is when I noticed the light had changed.

So, I waved to all my sisters and brothers grinning, and drove on through the intersection.

I noticed I was the only car that got through the intersection before the light changed again and I felt kind of sad that I had to leave them after all the love we had shared, so I slowed the car down, leaned out of the window and gave them all the Hawaiian good luck sign one last time as I drove away.

Praise the Lord for such wonderful folks!

Best Excuse Ever

A wealthy middle aged man bought a brand new Merc convertible SLK. He took it down the road flooring it up to 80mph, enjoying the wind blowing through what hair he had left. 'this is great' he said to himself.....and floored it a bit more.

He looks in his rear view mirror.....POLICE CAR !!! - blue lights flashing, siren blasting, catching him up!!!

can get away from him - no problem', thought the man, and he gave it some more - 120mph.....he carried on - then had a panic attack.

'What the F%$^ am I doing ? I'm too old for this kind of thing', and he pulled over, gave up and waited for the Officer to arrive.

The Policeman gets out of his car, walks over to the aged and frightened >>old man and says to him, '

Sir, (looking at his watch), my shift ends in 30 minutes and today is Friday 13th. If you can give me a reason why you were speeding that I've >>never heard before, I'll let you go'.

The man looked back at the Officer and said, 'Last week my wife ran off with a Policeman, and I thought you were bringing her back'.

'Have a nice day' said the Policeman
