Commodity Futures Contracts Lawyers

What Is A Commodity Futures Contract?

A commodity futures contract (i.e. a "futures contract," "commodity futures," or "futures") is a legally binding agreement between two parties to buy or sell a specific quantity of a commodity at a negotiated price at a specific date in the future.

What Is An Option On A Commodity Futures Contract?

Typically, a buyer pays a market-determined price (called a "premium") for an option on a commodity futures contract. If a buyer exercises his option within a specific time period, then he will be deemed to have entered into the futures contract at the agreed-upon price stated in the option.

What Products Are Commodity Futures Contracts Typically Used For?

Futures contracts and options on futures contracts exist for a wide range of products, including:

- Agricultural products: coffee, soybeans, wheat
- Livestock: pork bellies, cattle
- Natural Resources: oil, gas
- Precious Metals: gold, silver, platinum
- Financial Instruments: Stocks & Bonds
- Currencies: British pound, Japanese yen

Can I Trade Futures Contracts Or Options On Futures?

Futures and options are usually traded on a futures exchange by commodities brokers. Generally, individuals may trade them in two ways -- through an individual account or by participating in a "commodity pool." In your individual account, trading is done only for you by a commodities broker. In a commodity pool, you are purchasing shares or interests in the pool. The commodities broker executes trades for the pool as a whole, rather than for each individual in the pool. Pool participants share in gains or losses.

Who Regulates The Commodity Futures And Options Business?

There are two organizations responsible for regulating the commodity futures and options business:

Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC): The CFTC regulates commodity futures and options at the federal level. It is responsible for protecting customers who use these markets and monitoring such markets to prevent commodity price distortions and market manipulations. Futures contracts may only be bought and sold on exchanges licensed by the CFTC.

Are There Any Disclosures I Must Be Given Before Opening A Futures Account Or Entering Into A Commodity Pool?

Because trading in futures and options is a risky business appropriate only for certain businesses and individuals, the CFTC requires that a broker provide you with a document describing the risks involved in entering into futures and option contracts. The document provides you with an opportunity to carefully consider whether futures and options are appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources, and other circumstances. The broker must receive a signed and dated acknowledgment from you that you have received a disclosure document before he or she can accept any funds, securities, or property from you.

Do I Need An Attorney If I Have Not Been Given The Necessary Disclosures Or The Trades In My Account Have Not Been Handled Properly?

If a dispute arises out of your commodity futures or option account, it may possibly entail illegal activities by your broker such as unauthorized trading of your account, misrepresentation, nondisclosure, violations of fiduciary duty, or misappropriation (i.e. illegally taking) of funds. Some of your options include filing a complaint with the CFTC Reparations program, industry-sponsored arbitration, or court litigation. Although an attorney is technically only required for court litigation, seeking the advice of an experienced securities attorney is essential if you wish to fully protect your rights and have a greater chance of success.

First Edge & Global Look's at Africa Together

First Edge & Global Commodities has agreed to be more involved in the Main Structure of becoming more Structural in viewing it's co operative clients by combining each other resources together.

Together both companies will bring added benefits, such as negotiating and review the current structure of most African Countries and Companies who are trading around the world.

We Are aware

Both companies is aware of at Africa's proven resilient to the global downturn, companies without a presence in Africa started taking another look, and those already selling there realized it was time to boost their presence and increase their footprint.

A host of factors contributes to a rosier picture of Africa. The continent's total GDP of $1.5 trillion is similar to that of Brazil, India or Russia, and it's expected to grow faster than most non-BRIC emerging markets. While instability still plagues some nations, overall, political risk has diminished over the past 20 years. If Africa remains fragmented with more than 50 countries, the emergence of trading blocs have significantly improved the business environment. And a new consumer class is emerging so quickly that total consumer spending is expected to double by 2020.

NEW AngloGold sees 2013 production at Congo's Mongbwalu

BUNIA, Democratic Republic of Congo and AngloGold Ashanti has started construction at its confirmed 2.5 million ounces deposit Mongbwalu mine in north eastern Democratic Republic of Congo, the company said on Friday.

The firm aims to start pouring gold by the end of 2013 from the mine, which lies in the formerly war-torn region of Ituri, a renowned gold bearing area, said Richard Peattie, the mine's general manager.

"We want this to become one of the cornerstones for AngloGold Ashanti in this region.

The construction phase is being accelerated to prove the company's commitment to the region, where ongoing insecurity has hampered exploration, Peattie said.

The mine is expected to be the first of several projects on AngloGold's 6,000 km² Ituri concession, where the company holds a 86.22 percent stake in a joint venture with the government.

"There's no doubt that this place has got immense potential, just a little bit of drilling that we've done around here would suggest that we can make this into something special," Peattie said, declining to give details of investment costs.

The Ituri region was the scene of brutal ethnic warfare during Congo's second civil conflict, which ended in 2003, and the area remains heavily dependent on informal artisanal mining to drive its fragile economic recovery.

AngloGold also has a 45 percent stake in a joint venture with Randgold and the DRC authorities in the Kibali mine project, which has probable reserves of more than 10 million ounces and is also expected to start producing by end-2013. (First Edge will look more into this construction in future issue)

Gold Price's Moving Upwards again for Investors

If gold keeps rising the way it did on Friday, this strategist has a trade for you.

Gold has had a fairly rough ride in the last several months, but this week it was shining.

Matthew Bishop, a co-author of In Gold We Trust?, thinks more appreciation lies ahead.

"If you look at what's happening in Europe, they keep talking about austerity," he says, but it's not taking hold - and it's not turning around the economies that need it. "The long way out of this is we're going to get some inflation and we're going to see gold go from being a specialist investment to being something which the public as a whole starts to buy, and that's when the price will really shoot up."

That would be a few years out - but in the meantime, Rebecca Patterson, chief markets strategist for J.P. Morgan Asset Management, Institutional, is ready with a currency trade.

First, though, currency plays on gold aren't straightforward. "If gold goes up on risk aversion you tend to want those safe haven currencies with low yields, things like Swiss franc

"If gold is going up because jewellery demand, commodity demand broadly is rising, you want to be in a commodity currency like the Australian dollar

First Edge reviews the scams running into 2012

Welcome to another month dedicated to Evil Fraudsters and Scammers and how far these people would go to get their hands on your money.

We at First Edge have seen & knows all what there is to know about scammers.

We will can also supply you with the right procedures and put you in contact with the right sellers that can make you money.

90% of the time it come down to greed in losing your investment this means not looking at the downside of the transaction and not speaking with professional companies like First Edge for advice.

First Edge can safely say it has never lost out on any Gold Deal that why we are getting more and more investors to transact deals for them.

Our procedures are water tight and we are always updating our procedures for our ourselves & our wide range of financiers.

Advance fee fraud, romance scams, investment scams and criminal operations involving gold are increasingly common, and are usually initiated via the internet. The scams can range from a business claiming to be a gold bar, gold dust or gold coin supplier to an individual involved in the shipping, investment or sale of gold. Gold scams are common in West Africa but no country is immune. Scams can take place in any country.

In addition to the common gold scams on the internet, gold bars carry an increased risk of forgery due to their less stringent parameters for appearance. Larger bars have a greater volume that can enable a partial forgery using a tungsten-filled cavity, which is not easy to detect. Fake gold coins are common, and are usually made of gold-plated lead. The purity of a gold bar or coin can be expressed as a decimal figure ranging from 0 to 1, known as the millesimal fineness. Such ratings and quality inspections can be easily manipulated.

Procedure for CIF to London

From: Angeline Maynard

Subject: CIF to London

Dear Client

PRE-ARRIVAL INFORMATION AND PROCEDURES

Before the shipment arrives to London the Seller should notify the First Edge Team of departure date and other related documents please see (Required Documents shown below) this is to be dispatched and supply by Email

The Clear customs and pay 20% VAT also pay for security to Refinery and transport your Rep to Refinery/pay smelting and assay at Refinery then pay two days hotel accommodation for your Rep.

The smelting assay process will take no longer than 24 to 48 hours with payment in full to the seller for the total shipment immediately thereafter.

This in itself is of significant financial benefit to Gold Sellers when compared to the present sales structure. By accepting this format you will benefit from rising Au Gold prices going forward.

It is important to bear in mind that you will ship each consignment on CIF basis, which in itself guarantees that ownership of the gold does not pass from Seller to Buyer until payment in full has been effected.

The Refinery is Government Certified and of excellent financial standing.

The obvious benefit of trading directly with the Refinery on clearly defined terms is to build a trading relationship based on mutual trust and integrity.

We are at your disposal should you require any further clarity that we are the only UK company that will pay for the all the transaction stated at the port of delivery.

First Edge Ltd will not make any Advance Payment other than Full Payment after Full Assay

This does not mean we are not prepared to negotiate any added payment cost after the gold has been assayed, but no upfront fee and no advances also no diplomat fee or financier cost or anything relating where first edge has to pay upfront fee once the gold has arrived in London and before the assay of the gold has been completed.

What Is A 710?

A few days ago I was having some work done at my local garage. A blonde came in and asked for a seven-hundred- ten.

We all looked at each other and another customer asked, 'What is a seven-hundred - ten?'

She replied, 'You know, the little piece in the middle of the engine, I have lost it and need a new one..'

She replied that she did not know exactly what it was, but this piece had always been there.

The mechanic gave her a piece of paper and a pen and asked her to draw what the piece looked like.

She drew a circle and in the middle of it wrote 710. He then took her over to a car just like hers which had its hood up and asked 'is there a 710 on this car?'

She pointed and said, 'Of course, its right there.' the mechanic fainted

If you're not sure what a 710 is

This is one of the best blonde jokes I've seen in a while
